

Golden palm in Cannes for Carole Scotta
Jean-Luc Lagardère Foundation prize-winner

The Jean - Luc Lagardère Foundation shares the enjoyment of the producer Carole Scotta and all of her team, after the obtaining of the Golden palm at the Cannes film festival 2008 for Laurent Cantet's film " Between Walls ".

Prize-winner of the Jean - Luc Lagardère Foundation, Carole Scotta won the Producer Talent Grant in 1992. "This is the beginning of the adventure, she says. This grant allowed me to distribute American independent films whose media success launched our distributor producer's career"

With her company " Haut et Court ", Carole Scotta produced several films among which " My Life in pink" by Alain Berliner, which obtained the Golden Globe 1998 for the best foreign movie.

«With this Golden palm, it is again the talent and Carole Scotta's boldness that are rewarded. This success is a tremendous encouragement for the young producers, comments Renaud Leblond, Manager of the Jean - Luc Lagardère Foundation. It also confirms the Foundation's commitment to support young professionals in the fields of culture and media ".

This year again, the Foundation will award 255 000 € of Grants in ten disciplines (*). For the producer category, the Grant amounts to 50 000 €. Applications are to be sent to the Jean - Luc Lagardère Foundation by June 14th, 2008 ().

(*) Grants disciplines of the Jean-Luc Lagardère Foundation: digital creator, photographer, bookseller, film producer, musician, writer, animated film maker, print journalist, TV screentwriter, documentary writer.
